RISK CONSIDERATIONS

Risk profile

With lower risk,
potentially lower rewards

With higher risk,
potentially higher rewards

Specific risks of a given market, exchange rate fluctuations and interest rate fluctuations.

The value of the investments is based on their respective market value. Depending on the general stock market trend and the performance of the securities held in the investment fund, the net asset value may fluctuate significantly. It cannot be ruled out that the value may fall over a longer period of time.

there is no guarantee that the investor will get back all the capital he has invested or that he will achieve a certain return and that he will be able to return the units to the fund management company at a certain price.

Market Risk

Any investment strategy is influenced by certain characteristics of the financial markets, in particular liquidity and volatility levels. Certain market conditions may have a negative impact on the funds selected. In addition, it is possible that several target funds may make the same types of investments. In order to protect against this type of risk, the fund management company has set as a primary objective a significant and effective diversification of the strategies and markets used so as not to be highly dependent on a single source of return.

Liquidity Risk

In unusual market conditions or when market volume is particularly low, the mutual fund may find it difficult to value and/or trade some of its investments, particularly to meet large redemption requests.

Counterparty Risks

Counterparty risk characterizes the probability of insolvency of the debtor, a counterparty to a pending transaction, or the issuer or guarantor of a security or derivative. The occurrence of the insolvency of such a party results in the partial or total loss of the amount of the investment subject to the risk of that party. This risk must be taken into account when selecting a debtor, counterparty, issuer or guarantor. The creditworthiness of an issuer is measured by its rating by the leading rating agencies.

The value of investments, and the income from them, may fall as well as rise, and you may not recover the amount of your original investment. Past performance should not be taken as a guide to future performance. Investing for return involves the acceptance of risk: performance aspirations are not and cannot be guaranteed. Forward-looking statements, e.g. statements including terms like "believe", "assume", "expect" or similar expressions are subject to known and unknown risks, uncertainties and other factors which may result in a substantial divergence between the actual results, financial situation, development or performance of the issuer or the instrument and those explicitly or implicitly presumed in these statements, if any. Against the background of these uncertainties you should not rely on forward-looking statements. Rothschild & Co assumes no responsibility to update forward-looking statements or to adapt them to future events or developments. Where an investment involves exposure to a foreign currency, changes in rates of exchange may cause the value of the investment, and the income from it, to go up or down. Income may be produced at the expense of capital returns. The preservation of the invested capital cannot be guaranteed. The performance data do not take account of the commissions and costs incurred on the issue and redemption of units. Should a client of Rothschild & Co change his/her outlook concerning his/her investment objectives and/or his/her risk and return tolerance(s), he/she shall contact his/her Rothschild & Co client adviser.
