Fund manager's review

A combination of slowing economic growth, inflationary pressures and rising interest rates, as well as heightened geopolitical risks, including Russia's invasion of Ukraine, created a challenging investment environment throughout 2022. Conditions in financial markets were volatile and most asset classes fell in value over the year.

MARKET OVERVIEW

After three positive years of investment performance, 2022 proved challenging with few assets delivering positive returns. The final quarter of the year saw some of these losses recouped as global equity markets recovered from their lows, driven partly by China's re-opening and partly by easing inflation measures and bond yields. Despite the positive quarter, both equities and bonds ended the year down by 16% (in local currency terms). Investors have been confronted with heightened geopolitical risk, including the outbreak of war in Europe, in addition to slowing economic growth and heightened inflationary pressures.

2022 saw a resurgence of inflation to levels not seen in decades. Double digit headline rates were recorded across the US, Eurozone and the UK, although these did start to recede towards the end of the year as commodity prices eased.

PORTFOLIO PERFORMANCE

The portfolio performed well this quarter, helping to recoup some of the losses from the lows earlier in the year. Back-to-back upswings in October and November offered comfort but was slightly curtailed by a difficult December.

Within Equities, stock picking was the main performance driver, where consumer exposed names contributed positively whilst health care and financials lagged. Our preference for companies that demonstrate high quality characteristics such as strong profitability was a net positive but was overshadowed by the market's preference for cheaply valued companies. As we head into a slower growth environment, we maintain our philosophy towards good quality business that have pricing power and can improve their competitive position within their industries during times of economic stress.

Among single stocks, Nike was the outstanding performer this quarter, with >40% return. The stock responded favourably to China's re-opening announcement and an exceptional earnings report in December. Positive earnings reports were also the main performance driver for some other names with increases in the share price relative to their respective peers: Comcast, Visa, and Adobe. The latter also displayed a turnaround in sentiment versus last quarter following the announcement of the acquisition of rival firm Figma. Of the detractors, London Stock Exchange, Costco, and Amazon suffered. Amazon decelerated over the quarter as the share price reacted negatively to its fourth-quarter outlook.

PORTFOLIO ACTIVITY

Several changes were made to the portfolios over the final quarter of 2022.

Starting with Equities, we conducted changes to the commodities sector and distributed remaining proceeds across all equities. Here, we sold the Basic Resources ETF and allocated proceeds to the World Materials and MSCI ACWI ETFs. In addition, we introduced ASML following a better-than-expected outlook from the company. The stock corrected heavily from its peak, and we saw an attractive entry point to add some semiconductor exposure. Then, to reduce exposure to the cyclical banking sector in the context of an economic slowdown, we trimmed Morgan Stanley and Bank of America.

Looking at structured products, as the market was significantly below the put strike in October, we decided to sell the remaining allocation to the conditional hedge with a remarkable profit of more than 400%. The initial profit on this hedge was taken in June. Finally, considering macro and geopolitical uncertainty, we opportunistically added another hedge in December to protect the equivalent of 10% of the portfolio's equity exposure for the next 6 months.

Fund performance

At the end of the fourth quarter 2022, the performance stood at 8.8% QTD and -18.0% YTD.
